

The Two Ways.

"There are two ways to be independent in life; one is to make money enough to cover all your wants; the other is to limit your wants so strictly that you don't need much money to cover them."

The foregoing quotation from a recent magazine article by Bruce Barton embodies a sane philosophy of life, a brand of philosophy which this country is much in need of at the present moment. The tendency in recent years has been to gratify wants rather than to limit them. There are some indications, however, that the tide is turning and that there is a growing tendency to purchase according to urgent needs rather than according to urgent desires.

These two ways are ever before us. There is always the appeal to spend; the shop windows abound with opportunities to buy desirable things; it takes resolution and courage to resist the temptation to buy things useful in themselves but which are not absolutely necessary. It takes courage to limit our wants to the absolute necessities of life—yet many are doing it to-day and more will be doing it to-morrow. If we would do the best by our country and by ourselves we must see to it that there is always a margin of safety between income and outgo; that there shall always be set aside some amount, no matter how small, for the savings fund, for life insurance or for investment. This alone is the safe way.

ORANGE COUNTY FARM BUREAU

Notes for Week Ending Sept. 18.

Have measured and weighed corn variety tests this week. On Tuesday the test in West Topsham community was weighed and the results tabulated. On Thursday the varieties on the farm of Ralph Wilcox and Frank Wilcox in East Brookfield were weighed. Some very good data was obtained on the varieties used and the figures will be tabulated with the rest of the variety tests. The complete figures will be published in the October issue of the Farm Notes.

Monday evening a few of the community committee leaders in the Chelsea community met at George Tuthery's and discussed goals for the projects on the program. A good deal of the discussion concerned boys' and girls' club work. Plans were made for starting a club in the near future.

Tuesday evening the West Newbury Farmers' club met and discussed a program of work. The following program was made:

Project—Farm bureau organization; leader, John Brock; fireless cookers, Mrs. Moses Brock; community spraying, Miller brothers; dress forms, Mrs. J. H. Howard.

Friday evening the community leaders of the Williamstown community met at the home of Mrs. C. L. Blanchard and goals were set for the program there.

On Wednesday evening there was a meeting of the board of directors of the Central Orange Cove Test association at the farm bureau office. H. E. Bremer in charge of the cow test work of the state and W. A. Renfrew as a candidate for tester, were present. Two officers, vice president and auditor, who were not chosen at the previous meeting, were elected. A constitution and by-laws were adopted and contracts for members and the tester were drawn up.

Mr. Renfrew was engaged as a tester and plans made for securing membership enough to fill the association. It is planned to commence the testing the first week in October.

The coming week will be taken up with preparing for the farm bureau exhibit for the state fair. The county agents are finding more interest and co-operation this year than last and the prospects are good for a fine exhibit. There are several things needed yet and anyone who has good barley, wheat or corn to husk and would donate a sample for the exhibit will do much for the success of the farm bureau exhibit if they will notify the county agent as soon as possible.

On Wednesday the Thetford grange is planning for a big fair at Thetford hill. No effort is being spared to make this fair a big success and a worthwhile community get together. Harold A. Dwinell, County Agt.

A Rotten Article.

Some of our British cousins have much to learn regarding us. A Londoner in conversation with an American remarked in all seriousness: "Now, my dear sir, I hope you will not take umbrage at what I am about to say, but I consider the victrola belong to the spoils of the very worst article in your constitution."—Boston Transcript.

WHITE RIVER JUNCTION

Adelene A. Church has just started to go to school in district 14 on Herd hill, Randolph, where her grandfather, L. P. Hebard, her grandmother, Mrs. A. T. Morse, and her mother, Mrs. William Church, attended, making four generations to attend school in the same school building.

Married at the Universalist parsonage Thursday morning, Sept. 16, by Rev. H. L. Thornton, John Galley and Lillian Gates, both of Barre.

Ben Gates, the state auditor, was in White River Junction Friday to audit the books of the secretary of the Vermont state fair.

Rev. Dr. Gearheart of Chicago, representing the Men's Bible class of the Methodist denomination, gave an address on the forming of such a class in the Methodist church in White River Junction last Thursday night. He came under the auspices of the Men's Bible class of the local church. A banquet was served to about one hundred invited guests and after it had been served, Dr. Gearheart spoke. He is a fine speaker and gave a wonderful address on the help and inspiration which comes from this kind of an organization in a church, and the address was on such broad lines that it could be adopted by any denomination. Dr. Gearheart is making a tour of the Methodist churches in Vermont. Another feature of the meeting was the singing by the male quartet.

The F. H. Dalton lodge, No. 28, O. R. E. held a big field day and picnic at Lake Morey Sunday, Sept. 19. There was a large representation of the men who belong to this organization from Vermont and New Hampshire. It was a perfect day and more than one hundred members took part in this celebration and all of those who had the pleasure of attending report a great time.

William D. Mann, the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Mann of Quebec, returned Friday from an extended tour of Europe and the British Isles. Mr. Mann went with a party of young men from Dartmouth. He reports one of the greatest sightseeing trips of the world.

The Rebekahs of district eight held their annual meeting at Woodstock last Friday night. A banquet was served at the Commercial house, to which about one hundred and fifty sat down. After the banquet the guests retired to the T. O. O. F. lodge room and the exercises began and were in charge of Mrs. Gertrude Jewell, president. The work of the degree was exemplified by the Woodstock lodge. The lodges represented were as follows: Bethel, Rochester, South Royalton, Post Mills, Windsor, White River Junction and Woodstock. Those who attended this meeting from the White River Junction lodge report one of the best times of the season.

H. McLaughlin, contractor, of Hazel street, Rutland, was a business caller in White River Junction Friday.

Governor Clement of Rutland was a caller in White River Junction Friday.

The Knights of Pythias of Vermont and New Hampshire held a clambake at Lake Sunapee Sunday.

The Charles Brown property, located on Gates street, was sold last Friday to Charles O'Neill, the coal dealer. Mr. O'Neill will take immediate possession of his new purchase, moving in to-day. The sale was made through the Darby agency.

Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Rector, who have been spending the week with relatives and friends in New York state, returned home Saturday night.

Mrs. Harold Swanson and two children, who have been spending a number of weeks in Schenectady, returned home Saturday.

Miss Helen Thornton and Miss Jessie Blanchard spent the week end with friends in Montpelier.

STOVE

Pupils of the class of 1920 of Stove high school, who expect to enter the University of Vermont, are Misses Louise Morgan, Edith Sleeper, Rebecca Buron and Kathryn Recor, also Douglas Barrows and John O'Bardman. Others from here who will resume their studies there are Miss Madeline Boardman and Orlo K. Jenner of the class of 1921, Ira Munn Boardman and Floyd Sleeper of the class of 1922.

Miss Edith Sleeper went Saturday to pass the week-end with her sister, Mrs. Archie Fisher, in Walliston.

Rev. C. E. Hayward and Principal C. J. Strand went on a hike to Mt. Mansfield Saturday.

Captain H. E. Stickney of Springfield, who came in a Curtis airplane, was met at Morrisville by Raeburn McMahon, who accompanied Mr. Stickney to Stowe, where they landed at the Stowe aviation field. Mr. Stickney returned here from Barre Saturday evening and dedicated the aviation field, carrying passengers Sunday. Captain Stickney pronounced the field one of the best he had seen. Many prominent people were in attendance to dedicate the field, among them Major Harry D. Smith of the United States navy, stationed at Boston, and Major Dwight F. Smith, U. S. M. C.

BETHEL

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Stoddard of Boston are visiting the Gay families here and in Gayville. Mr. Stoddard is a typical Bostonian, having had an office on State street 35 years.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Roe of Hartford, Conn., are guests at F. T. Allen's.

The district meeting of the Woman's Relief corps will be held with the Bethel corps in the near future.

A pronounced frost occurred this morning. The extent of the damage is not known. Much corn has been cut and is standing. It was the first frost of the season.

How to Plant an Advertising Crop

Until the advent of the Audit Bureau of Circulations, advertisers sowed their business seed in a vast but fallow field. Some of it grew and returned a fair harvest—much of it was cast upon barren ground and was lost. There was no standardized method of determining the fertility of a publication's field. Experimenting was expensive.

The A. B. C. has eliminated the barren spots of circulation. Planting an advertising crop is no longer an experiment. Advertisers KNOW the field through audit reports. They know whether it is fertile ground and sow their seed accordingly.

The Barre Daily Times' circulation has been audited by the A. B. C. Advertisements placed in this publication are seeds well sown.
